++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Fine and dry for many but cloudier in the west.

This Evening and Tonight:
Dry with clear periods for most. Cloudier in the northwest with some rain or drizzle, especially western Scotland where some heavier rain. Cloud spreading southwards along west coast overnight. A few fog patches in the south ahead of this.

Wednesday:
Cloudy in the far west with some mostly light rain or drizzle. Fine, dry and warm for eastern parts. A few showers possible in east England later in the day.

Outlook for Thursday to Saturday:
Plenty of fine, dry, and warm to very warm weather. Main exception the far northwest on Thursday, here windy with outbreaks of rain. Some warm nights in prospect too.
